

PRAISE FOR

Mission Possible

“Maureen has brought more than possibilities to the reader. She has brought clarity, solutions and direction! This is a book for everyone – A MUST read.”

– Ann Coombs, Futurist and Author of the best selling The Living Workplace

“Maureen F. Fitzgerald’s Mission Possible: Creating a Mission for Work and Life is an impressively written and thoroughly ‘user friendly’ self-help guide to creating a personal mission statement to guide one’s search for a rewarding career, strengthen one’s character, and improve the quality of one’s life. Guided activities, encouraging advice, and an emphasis on learning how to plan to achieve fill the pages of this personally motivating and highly recommended ‘go-getter’ self-help book.”

– Midwest Book Review

“Mission Possible is a timely book for the generation that no longer accepts mediocrity. Ms. Fitzgerald’s ability to move people from dreams to reality is extraordinarily rare. She provides a simple, process with deep roots that will take you step-by-step from vision to action. If you truly want to align yourself with your work, Mission Possible is for you.”

– Monica Beauregard, President of Bridgepoint Human Resources Inc., Toronto

“Maureen Fitzgerald is a dynamic and intelligent presenter who, through her workshops, has helped countless budding entrepreneurs and consultants develop powerful mission statements. This book makes it easy for many more to guide their careers, indeed their lives.”

– Roxanne Davies, Successful Contracting and Consulting

“I have recommended your book many times over to women and men who cannot get through the Steven Covey type books. Personally I have been on an active ‘quest for my vision’ since August 1999...The subtleties of your book spoke loud and clear to me and suddenly all those ‘other’ books made sense. I found your book is easier and much more fun to process.”

– Maureen O’Reilly, Marketing and Communications Director

“I have read your book myself and thought it was right on — both reflective and practical. I discuss your five-step philosophy with my clients and I am working thorough it on my own. Thank you for rekindling the notion of vision — while I have been doing a good job of creating plans and achieving goals, I realize that I have been missing my overall picture of vision.”

– Laura Brock, The Focus Group

“Mission Possible is not only a great book, but also a great life tool that everyone should read and incorporate into their lives. I am going to strongly recommend Mission Possible to all students and faculty at Okanagan University College.”

– Jamie Morrow, Professor
